THAT'S A GOOD SIS—When James Quinn, eight, enlisted in the Navy and took leave of the family he told his sister Sylvia to "take care of yourself." She did—until the next day, when she went to the hospital for an emergency appendectomy last week. All of which made a very busy two days for their mother, Mrs. W. Quinn, 1433 W. 218th street, where Sylvia now is recuperating.

Two Men Held on Statutory Charges Here

Charged with statutory rape, Mathias G. Molina, 47, who said he lived in the Santa Fe Station House, was arrested by Torrance police Wednesday and booked in the city jail pending a preliminary hearing in Judge Otto B. Willett court on July 23. Dennis M. Wellman, 37, of 1814 Martina avenue, waived preliminary hearing Tuesday and was held to answer on a similar charge in Judge Willett's court, according to police records.

Harbor College Plans Adopted; Bids August 20

Bids for construction of the new $21,100,000 Harbor Area Junior College at Pacific Coast highway and Figueroa street will be opened Aug. 20 by the Los Angeles Board of Education, it was announced yesterday.

Specifications and working drawings for the initial project involving an estimated expenditure of $1,437,000 were adopted Monday night by the Board. Architects are James R. Friend and A. C. Zimmerman. Other buildings are to be added later.

Projects include a classroom and science building, $402,100; students' activities structure, $245,900; physical education building, $285,900; shops No. 1 and 2, $412,000; electrical distribution system and vault equipment, $55,100; steam distribution system, $14,400 and sewage disposal and water and gas distribution systems, $21,000.

JOSEPH R. KNOWLAND, publisher Oakland Tribune— "America's national nominating conventions, regardless of party, are a striking and dramatic exhibition of the workings of a great democracy."

Diatomaceous Earth Mining Permit Denied

Efforts of John Mayer to have the Torrance City Council override the City Planning Commission's refusal to allow him to excavate diatomaceous earth from "the hill" described as Block 12 of the Walteria tract met with failure Tuesday night.

Faced with a heavy protest from nearby residents, the Council voted unanimously to deny Mayer's appeal and to concur in the decision of the planning body. Mayer was not present but was represented by Attorney C. P. Rippey.

The Walteria Civic Organization, represented by Bessie Stonecker, secretary, called the council's attention to two previous actions of the commission the first denying a variance for mining and manufacturing and the second for mining operations only.

Others who spoke against the proposal were R. D. Johnston, E. J. Michaels and Fred Gurken, who has an 11-acre flower farm adjoining the site, which he said has caused him to lose two crops.

R. Hague, 3890 Newton street, said that action of the dust had eaten the paint off his house in one year's time.

Councilman Powell said the dust was like talcum powder and that one sack of the material mined from the Dicalite plant would cover a city lot with a dust cloud. He moved denial and the other councilmen concurred.

HURT IN POLECRASH
Shearing off an Edison power pole as he skidded off the road at 190th street and Western avenue, William D. Peterson, 29, of 2062 Middlebrook Road, sustained injuries in an accident early Saturday morning.
